Get Smart with Specific Measurable Achievable Relevant Telephone Techniques.

The frustration of voicemail and the ease of email have caused the majority of sales teams to abandon the most effective tool in their sales kit — the telephone. Yet prospects are hungry for the intimate conversations and excellence of service that only the phone provides. Is your sales team making fewer phone calls? Are they frustrated with voicemail and their ability to reach prospects and existing customers? Has email become their primary means of communication? If so, you are missing out on sales opportunities and increased revenue.
